Four friends stalked by a deadly force... watching... waiting...
taking them one by one.

Four friends escape the grime of the city and head out into the woods for a peaceful, relaxing weekend. Events take a sinister turn when a mysterious girl appears in their camp looking for her boyfriend. Soon the nightmare begins as they find themselves lost in an endless wilder-ness stalked by a deadly force... watching... waiting... taking them one by one. As those left fight for survival they will discover the true nature of fear...

Dead Wood is the feature debut by a trio of British filmmakers: David Bryant, Sebastian Smith and Richard Stiles. The three have created a horror film that combines the primeval fears of the unknown, the dark, the supernatural and the panic of being lost and alone with terrifying results.
